I have been teaching as a special needs teacher since 1995 and at CCC since 2002. Currently I am case-managing and supporting Students with a disability in year, 7-9 mainstream classes. I am also teaching ICP (Individual Curriculum Plan) Mathematics and Science for students whose ability ranges between year 1 and year 5 levels. I design and co-teach Life Skills/ASDAN programs for the ICP students, concentrating on social and communication skills, self-management and cooperation.

As a special needs teacher I focus on providing individual service to my students and differentiate the curriculum and teaching strategies to their needs. Being flexible and able to modify my way of teaching improves student learning, outcome and self-esteem. I strive to encourage my students to always do their best. I believe that effective learning requires the collaboration between teachers, students and parents grounded in mutual respect and trust.
