As a long time teacher at Calamvale Community College, I have seen many changes. I started at Calamvale in 2002 in the Middle School (during the first year of operation), and moved to Senior School in 2006. Before Calamvale, I worked in two remote schools in the North-West, as well as another on the Gold Coast. This year, I am working with students in the new IB program, introducing them to the wide and sometimes weird world of Physics. As a teacher of Mathematics, I try to dispel the fears of many students, and instil an increased level of confidence. This allows students to extend themselves and have trust in their own abilities. I believe everyone is lifelong learner, and the worlds of physics and mathematics are a prime example of ever changing worlds.
